This is a legal notice that could lead to you being evicted from your home.

The following information is from your landlord

I am giving you this notice because I believe you owe me $  in rent.
See the table on the next page for an explanation of how I calculated this amount.

I can apply to the Board to have you evicted if you do not:

- pay this amount by . This is called the termination date.
- Or
- move out by the termination date.

If another rent payment becomes due on or before the date you make the above payment to your landlord, you must also pay this extra amount.

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

The following information is provided by the Landlord and Tenant Board

- The termination date
- The date that the landlord gives you in this notice to pay or move out must be at least:
    - 14 days after the landlord gives you the notice, if you rent by the month or year, or
    - 7 days after the landlord gives you the notice, if you rent by the day or week.

What if you agree with the notice?

If you agree that you owe the amount that the landlord is claiming, you should pay this amount by the termination date in this notice. If you do so, the landlord cannot apply to the Board to evict you based on this notice.

What if you disagree with the notice?

If you do not pay the amount owing, you do not have to move out. However, the landlord can apply to the Board to evict you. If the landlord applies to the Board to evict you and the Board orders the eviction, you will likely have to pay the landlord's filing fee, in addition to what you owe.

What if you move out?

You do not have to move out if you disagree with this notice. You could talk to your landlord. You may also want to get legal advice. If you cannot work things out, the landlord must apply to the Board for an order to evict you. The Board will schedule a hearing where you can explain why you disagree.

If you move out by the termination date in this notice, your tenancy will end on the termination date. However, you may still owe money to your landlord. Your landlord must be able to apply to the Board but they may still take you to Court for this money.

This is a legal notice that could lead to you being evicted from your home.

The following information is from your landlord

I am giving you this notice because I believe you owe me $ 11,925.00 in rent.
See the table on the next page for an explanation of how I calculated this amount.

I can apply to the Board to have you evicted if you do not:

- pay this amount by 2019/02/29. This is called the termination date.
- Or
- move out by the termination date.

If another rent payment becomes due on or before the date you make the above payment to your landlord, you must also pay this extra amount.

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

The following information is provided by the Landlord and Tenant Board

The termination date: The date that the landlord gives you in this notice to pay or move out must be at least:
• 14 days after the landlord gives you the notice, if you rent by the month or year, or
• 7 days after the landlord gives you the notice, if you rent by the day or week.

What if you agree with the notice? If you agree that you owe the amount that the landlord is claiming, you should pay this amount by the termination date in this notice. If you do so, the landlord cannot apply to the Board to evict you based on this notice.

What if you disagree with the notice? If you do not pay the amount owing, you do not have to move out. However, the landlord can apply to the Board to evict you. If the landlord applies to the Board to evict you and the Board orders the eviction, you will likely have to pay the landlord's filing fee, in addition to what you owe.

What if you move out? If you move out by the termination date in this notice, your tenancy will end on that termination date. However, you may still owe money to your landlord. Your landlord will not be able to apply to the Board but they may take you to court for this money.
